Wm. H. Drexler, a citizen of Montreal, Canada, who took passage on the Belle of Shreveport at Shreveport for his home, died shortly after and was buried at the foot of Council Bend two and a half miles below Bledso's landing.

On last Sunday evening the pilots of the Emma T. Elliott placed a buoy on Bacon Rock. At the river is getting down to extremely low water it was feared that unless marked some boat might strike the rock and serious damage be the result.

The high school did not open yesterday because of the sickness of Prof. Alvord, who is confined to his room by quinsy. The school will, however, notwithstanding the sickness of the professor, be opened and organized this morning by Misses Stocking and French.

A SPECIAL train will leave the C. & V. R. R. depot this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock for Mound City and return at 5, thus giving all our citizens who desire to witness the game of base ball between the River-side and Nemo clubs time to do so, and get back to Cairo not later than 6 o'clock. Fare for round trip 50 cents.

THE negro who was arrested for cutting another negro on the levee with a razor on Saturday night was discharged by Police Magistrate Bird. There is something rotten in this Denmark. The wounded negro, who received severe wounds, protested that his assailant was the officers, but afterwards concluded that he might be mistaken, and so testified.

ELLIOTT & HAYTORN inform the public that they will close out their summer stock of ladies' and gentlemen's boys' and girls' boots and shoes, within the next ten days at cost. This is not an advertising dodge to obtain trade, as all may ascertain by calling and pricing goods. The stock must be closed out, and people may now obtain the best bargains they have ever had in boots and shoes.

AT a regular meeting of the Hibernian Fire company, held last night, the following officers were elected: President, Wm. McHale; Vice President, P. O'Laughlin; Secretary, O. P. Lyons; Treasurer, A. Suwanika; Foreman of Engine, Phil. H. Howard; Assistant, Smith Torrence; Foreman of Hose, T. M. Levitt; Assistant, J. M. Hogan; Board of Directors, Thos. Keane, M. J. Howley and John Clancy.

ALL the public schools of this city, except the high school and the negro school, were opened yesterday. The attendance was large. This session has been commenced under very favorable auspices. Teachers of great experience have been engaged, and Prof. Alvord, with greater powers than he has had heretofore, opens the campaign as our educational generalissimo, determined to make the schools better than they have ever been before, and equal to any in the state.

On Sunday evening last while Mr. George Grangson and his mother were returning from a visit to Mound City, when a short distance below the residence of Mr. Thos. Halliday, the horse became unmanageable and ran away. After running a short distance the buggy was capsized and both Mr. and Mrs. Grangson thrown violently to the ground. Mrs. Grangson was severely cut about the face, but received no other serious injuries. Her son occupied unharmed. The buggy was completely demolished, the top being left in one place, the body in another and the running gear somewhere else. The horse and buggy belonged to the livery establishment of Mr. Perry Powers.

The Denton fever is already beginning to rage in the city. In anticipation of the coming of that great lecturer the doubters and the believers are on the tip toe of expectation. We alone are calm. Luckily it has occurred to us that as great men as Denton lived and died before he was born, and that if he is the man destined to set the river on fire we are not to blame, and do not care. We can stand it if he can, and if he can't there are others who can. But, to be candid, Denton has a ready tongue as well as a good many orations in his head, and we appreciate him. We like to listen to him, and intend to; and we shall, we know, appreciate the blows he will strike at the many evils of the day, even if we don't gulp down his crude, and almost ridiculous notions about spirits and the spirit world.

The sermon of Rev. Mr. Thayer of the Presbyterian church, delivered Sunday night, on the subject of "The Unknown God," although it was not a review of Mr. Ingersoll's oration on "The Gods," was, in one sense, a reply to it. Mr. Ingersoll, as we understand him, says there is no God, that matter existed from eternity and that life is nothing but the result of a system of development without an author and which is the result of nothing. Mr. Thayer undertook to show that the evidences of the existence of God—evidences existing outside of Revelation—are numerous and in the mind of any reasonable person, conclusive. We did not hear the sermon, but several persons who did, have told us that it was eloquent and learned, that the superstructure of "The Gods" oration was knocked down by the reverend gentleman's logic, and that the infidels who were present were made to feel that they are walking on very uncertain ground.

Our much-traveled correspondent, Hon. J. Wilcox, formerly of Cairo, but now a citizen of the world, has acquired a military title by his valor in the late Modoc war. That he could handle the pen, and write a ray letter in execrable chirography, was a well-known fact to many of his friends and to thousands of the readers of THE BULLETIN who had never waded upon his handsome features, but that he could handle the sword was never known to mortal until he belittled in the Modoc war, and with his own hand captured Capt. Jack. Dr. Dunning always said he had been out for a soldier, but P. H. Barclay and J. Johnson laughed at the declaration, and whenever they laugh at anything that finishes it. And yet Just came out of that war a colonel as may be seen by the following paragraph, which we copy by the St. Louis "Times": "Colonel Just Wilcox ('J-u-u-i-t') the spy correspondent of THE CAIRO BULLETIN," says the "Times," "returned to this city a few days ago from an extended visit east. The colonel was formerly a popular steamboat clerk, but of late years has been known as owner and proprietor of the St. Charles Hotel, Cairo, Ill. For the past two seasons he has leased his hotel, but is now talking of running it again himself."

ADOLPH SWOBODA, in a card published in the "Sun" yesterday evening pronounced an eulogy in his dog, now lying very dead at the bottom of the Mississippi River, sent to his death by Marshal McHale. The dog was genuine "St. Bernard," was imported to this land of talking freemen and barking dogs at a cost of $85; would carry ice and messages; twice saved a house from burning, and gave the first alarm when Pitcher's house almost went up in smoke two years ago; would find lost money; was a servant in the house of Swoboda and was always faithful. Well, who said the Swoboda dog did not merit all the praise he has received from his master? He was, no doubt, a faithful dog, and we do not blame Swoboda for weeping at his tomb, or desiring to punish his slayer; but, the question in which we are interested is this: What is the use of a right to order his servants to kill unarmaged dogs running upon the streets in certain months, and, if it has, can the officer performing the duty be compelled to pay damages to the owner of a dog killed by him? Swoboda's dog valuable as he is said to have been, was not proof against hydrophobia, and there is no reason why he, endangering human life by running at large unarmaged in what has been designated the hydrophobia season, should not be killed. Besides this, there is reason to believe that the Swoboda dog was the terror of his neighborhood in his life, and that in his death he is not much lamented by the public.

THE Rev. Mr. Shores, under the drip-pings of those altar, and several other white Baptists sat on last Sunday night, cannot tolerate newspaper puffing. A puff angers him; but we hope he does not become indignant when an editor, in the interest of the cause, referring to him writes words of praise which are also words of sobriety and truth. We believe he will permit us to say that his sermon on Sunday night was a remarkable sermon. The text, "If the footmen worry you, how can you stand before the horsemen?" or words to the same effect, permitted the minister to take a wide range, and he availed himself of the opportunity Mr. Safford, in those comfortable pew we had a pleasant seat, Capt. Morris, and Co. Harman and Phillips, as well as the ladies present, were all delighted; and Mr. W., who has been somewhat touched with skepticism, was almost persuaded to be a Christian. But to return to the horsemen, or rather to the sermon. Mr. Shores does not wear a posthumous coat, or nabob boots, but can handle a passage of the scriptures without gloves, and neither Sleeper nor the Devil, who are, so far as we know, one and the same person, can prevail against him. Linenger is of this opinion. We are aware of the fact that Judge Mulkey is not; and although we are a student of his and draw from the light of his countenance our knowledge of the law, we beg leave to not agree with him. However this is foreign to our subject. To return to the sermon, we would again repeat our declaration that it was a remarkable sermon. Mr. Shores has much of the originality of Rev. Ward Beecher, but has not all the polish of that divine. He had not Henry's opportunities. Mr. Shores was once a slave, and all he knows he taught himself and more too. We know he has trials. He is the good apple tree of the orchard under which lie the clubs which have been hung into its branches, but he is not a red shaken by the wind. He undoubtedly can and will overcome both footmen and horsemen.

At an informal meeting of the board of education of the Cairo public schools held at the office of the board, September 6, 1873, the following named members were present: J. B. Phillips, F. Kormeyer and E. C. Pace; George Fisher and W. P. Halliday being absent from the city. The board was called to order by J. B. Phillips, Esq., who stated the object of the meeting was to give expression, in a be-fitting manner, of the feelings we entertain at the loss by the removal of our esteemed associate and president, Capt. Daniel Hurd.

The following preamble and resolutions were then adopted:

WHEREAS, Circumstances of sufficient interest have arisen as to induce the removal of our associate and president, D. Hurd, from this city and from a sphere of active usefulness, to Denver, Colorado, and

WHEREAS, We, as members of said board, recognizing his past and present usefulness as a member of the board, and to some extent the loss likely to be sustained by his retiring therefrom. Therefore be it

Resolved, That we recognize in Capt. Hurd a sincere friend to the cause of education and a faithful worker therein; and that the present high degree of excellence attained by our public schools, is due mainly to his persistent efforts. Having long ago secured for himself that education was the only means of elevating and refining society, he has lent his entire energies in that direction and by his gentlemanly, christian manner has "proved his faith by his works" and endeared himself to the friends of the cause.

Resolved, That by his removal the cause of education in Cairo loses one of its most faithful friends and warmest advocates, and while we find words, entirely inadequate to express the regret we feel at his removal; yet, we trust, that in his far-away home he will be able to contribute his ripe experience to the cause so near his heart, and realize the benefits for which he labored so faithfully.

Resolved, That he carries with him the best wishes of the board for the future happiness and prosperity of himself and family, and an assurance of the warm regard and affection of his associates, and in distant future when he looks back upon the life he has lived, he will be able to say that he has been a faithful worker in the cause of education, and that his removal has been a loss to the city.

Resolved, That Capt. Hurd be furnished with a copy of the above, that they be read in full upon the records of the Secretary, and a copy furnished the city papers for publication.

LETTER FROM ANNA.

ANNA, Ills., September 8, 1873.

EDITOR CAIRO BULLETIN.—Six miles west of Jonesboro at the grading of the Mississippi bottom, cholera has been making some ravages. Five deaths occurred in one family. However, the disease has not yet attacked any other locality.

Mr. John McElheney of Jonesboro, died of the disease last night. This was a sporadic case contracted in the bottoms.

Mark Bunch, a very worthy man of about 35 years of age, was killed at the asylum on Saturday last, by the caving in of the side of a sewer, in which he was at work at the time. Life was extinct before his exhumation.

The circuit court today, at Jonesboro was suspended, on account of the indisposition of Judge Tanner, but the business will be resumed on to-morrow.

The county fair begins on next Wednesday, and the citizens of Jonesboro are in expectation of a large turn out, and a better fair than has ever been held there.

Several of our people are rushing to avoid the acquaintance of the grand jury.

CLOUD.

ARRIVAL OF THE CELEBRATED OAKSMAN.

FIFTY-FIVE DAYS IN MAKING THE TRIP FROM PHILADELPHIA TO CAIRO—90 DAYS TO GO FROM CAIRO TO NEW ORLEANS.

Mr. Joseph C. Cloud, the celebrated oaksman, of whom the eastern people have had so much to say of late, arrived at Cairo at about two o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Cloud left Philadelphia on the 15th of July last on a wager of $5,000 that he could travel from Philadelphia to New Orleans in 145 days, during which time he is not to eat a meal or sleep a night in a hotel or house of any description. He may sleep under a shed where all for sides are open; and he is not prohibited from eating such food as may be able to cook on the bank of the river, or carry with him. He has now been out from Philadelphia 55 days, and has traveled on an average of 50 miles per day, or 2,547 miles from Philadelphia to Cairo.

By the route traversed by Cloud from Philadelphia to New Orleans will be 3,627 miles. From this point to New Orleans he has 1,080 miles to travel, and ninety days to do it in.

It should be understood that this is not a trial of speed, but, on the contrary, a question of endurance. Cloud is confident that he could make the run from Cairo to New Orleans with ease in twenty-five days, but does not desire to reach the end of his journey until near the last day. If he were to reach New Orleans fifty days ahead of time he would be compelled to sleep in the open air on the wharf or some other place, and says he fears the mosquitoes, darkies, wharf rats and other vermin might make it unpleasant for him. He prefers the excitement and changes of scenery of the journey to laying about New Orleans for any length of time.

Cloud says the report that two shots were fired at him while coming down the Ohio above Louisville, is untrue.

He has no fear of his ability to make the run and stand all the hardships incident thereto. He will leave Cairo this morning on his way down the river.

COMMERCIAL.

PRICE CURRENT OFFICE,
Monday Evening, Sept. 1, 1873.

GENERAL REMARKS.

We note a better feeling throughout the general market although there is but little improvement in the demand and transactions are small.

In flour the low and medium grades are in good supply and light demand at unchanged prices. Choice grades are scarce and firm at an advance of 25 cents on the bbl. Oats continue scarce and firm at an advance. Corn meal is in fair demand at better prices. Corn is unchanged. Hay dull and lower.

The weather is cool and favorable for business.

Correspondents should bear in mind that these quotations are for round lots from first hands. For broken and small lots, and in filling orders, an advance of 1 to 3c is charged over these prices.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Flour—Choice grades are wanted and prices are firm at an advance, low and medium grades are in good supply and quiet. Sales embraced 600 bbls various grades, on orders, at $6.60; 9; 200 bbls do, $5.50; 200 bbls do, $5.60; 100 bbls super $4; 100 bbls XXX winter, $5.25; 200 bbls XXX winter, $5.30; 100 XXX winter, to arrive, $7; 300 bbls various grades $4.68 25; 100 bbls various grades, $5.68 75.

HAY—Very dull. The market is very well supplied and demand small. Sales were 1 car choice timothy, $18 del; 2 cars choice mixed, del, $17, and 1 car prime mixed, del, $16.

CORN—Firm and unchanged. The supply and demand are about equal. White is quoted at 55c today. Sales embraced 3 cars mixed in burlaps del, $1.01; 3 cars white in sacks del, $1.01; 1 car mixed white and yellow sold in sacks del, $1.04; 4 cars white sacked and del, $1.04; 4 cars white in bulk on track del, and 1 car low grade yellow in bulk on track, sold at $1.01.

OATS—Receipts are light and demand good, prices are firm with an upward tendency. Sales were made to-day at 39c. Transactions are limited by light supply. Sales were 2 cars sacked and delivered $1.04; 4 cars do, sold early, at 38c; 1 car do 39c; 1 car do 38c and 1 car white do sold at 40c.

CORN MEAL—300 bbls S. D. sold at city steam dried in small lots sold at $2.55; 2 60; 500 bbls S. D. $2.50 and 128 bbls do $2.50.

BRAN—Quiet, 250 sacks sold on order at $2.50 and 1 car low sold in sacks delivered at $13 per ton.

BUTTER—There is a good stock of medium grades on the market. The demand for all kinds are moderate. The weather is cooler and we may look for an improvement in the market. We note sales of 10 tubs choice 22@25; 30 pkgs good to choice 20@25; 10 pkgs do 20@25 and 15 buckets choice 22.

EGGS—If the present cool weather continues there will be an advance in prices. There is very few in the market and fresh receipts today would sell at 15c, 500 dozen sold since our last review at 12@13c and 4 cases at 14@15c.

CHICKENS—Receipts are light and demand moderate. 50 dozen large, young sold at $3 and 20 dozen choice sold at $3.50.

FRUIT—All kinds except grapes are dull. The only sales we have to report are 100 boxes apples at 20@25c.

PROVISIONS—None in market.

POTATOES and ONIONS—Nothing doing.

THE HARVEST OF DEATH.—It would seem the usual causes of infant mortality are not sufficient. The innocent ones are not permitted an even battle with the king of terror. At this hot and sultry season, the restless child, battling with the enemies of his life that lie in wait at every corner, has, in addition, to encounter another deadly foe—Mrs. Winslow's or some other poisonous syrup, administered by the hands of some heartless nurse, silly mother, or imbecile father. A host of lives might be saved each year by giving Dr. McCabe's Modicated Brandy, which effectually cures infantile complaints without any deleterious results.
